This has helped revitalise the area and attract tourism to an area not as well-known as the Brecon Beacons but as equally attractive.

“I didn’t know what to expect I was only a participant really. I can’t help rolling my sleeves up though, so enjoyed the further participation because of this”.

Organisation: Cultivate (Cwm Harry) Cyfyngedig

Project: Growing Food Together

Cultivate have spent £18,384.78 in Newtown delivering through experiential learning of how to grow fresh, nutritious fruit and vegetables from seed, and by teaching people through demonstration how to cook fresh, nutritious food on a budget. Helping reduce the impact of the cost of living crisis and improving people's quality of life. Active travel to our site in Newtown has been promoted to enable more people to access growing and cooking activity opportunities.

“By working with key partners and bringing people to our 2.5 acre site, communities have been connected, community cohesion and a pride in place have been built”.

“When we discovered that the elderly were inhibited from chopping by arthritis, etc, we simplified and shared out tasks such that they still felt valuable and able to participate.”

“I make pasta dishes on my own but this is the first meal I have made on myself without any help.”

‘I learnt to make refried beans’

With children it is especially nice to watch them eat and enjoy vegetables they thought they did not like .”
